I'm havng the same problem as John. I have downloaded the .chm version of the manual several times from different mirrors and none of them work. The index pane will catelog, index, and search but when a topic is clicked all I get is "action cancelled" or "page can not be displayed". There is no .chm file included in the windows install.

So, I downloaded the manual.pdf file and it came right up. But, the instructions in it do not even match the directory structure installed by the 4.1.14-win32 installation program. For example: To test the installation the Help file says to use "c:\mysql\bin\mysql test" from a command prompt. The installation does not install to that directory.
